

Application for dispensation - to prevent a residence permit from lapsing while living abroad

Uses

This form is to be used when requesting that your residence permit remains valid, even though you intend to reside outside the Faroe Islands for an extended period of time. Residence in Denmark or Greenland is considered residence outside the Faroe Islands. This form can be used by both children and adults.

What happens if my residence permit lapses?

If your residence permit lapses, you lose your right to reside in the Faroe Islands. This means you may be denied re-entry if you have been out of the Faroe Islands for an extended period of time.

If your residence permit lapses you will need to apply for a new residence permit. Your new application will be processed according to current regulations. The grounds for issuing your original residence permit will not be considered.

How can my residence permit lapse?

Your residence permit lapses automatically if you no longer maintain an address in the Faroe Islands and you leave the country without any intention to return. This applies even if you have a permanent residence permit.

If you maintain an address in the Faroe Islands, the period of time you may remain outside the country before your residence permit lapses depends on how long you have lived in the Faroe Islands. If you have been a legal resident for less than two years, you may remain outside the Faroe Islands for up to six months. If you have been a legal resident for more than two years and qualify for permanent residence, you may remain outside the Faroe Islands for up to 12 months. If you fail to return within the time limit, your permit will automatically lapse.

How do I prevent my residence permit from lapsing?

If you expect to remain outside the Faroe Islands for an extended period of time and would like your residence permit to remain valid, you may apply for dispensation. Requests for dispensation must be received by the Immigration Service before you leave the Faroe Islands, and you must have a specific purpose for residing abroad, such as:

- work
- education
- foreign posting for a Danish/Faroese authority, institution, organisation or company
- foreign posting for an international institution, organisation or company headquartered in Denmark/the Faroe Islands

What about family members with residence permits?

If you are granted dispensation, it can also include your spouse/cohabiting partner as well as any children under 18 who are living with you. The length of your family members' dispensation will be the same as yours.

Family reunified spouses/partners who remain in the Faroe Islands may have their residence permits revoked after six months, since you would no longer meet the joint residency requirement.

What is the maximum dispensation period?

Decisions about dispensation are made on a case-by-case basis and depend on a number of factors, such as: the purpose of your stay abroad, the length of time you have lived in the Faroe Islands and your ties to the Faroe Islands. Normally, the maximum dispensation period is three years. However, extensions can be granted if you do not wish to return before the dispensation period expires. Applications for extension are made using this form (FO/BF1).

If you do not return to the Faroe Islands before the dispensation period expires, your residence permit will lapse and you will need to apply for a new Faroese residence permit.
